Dear Robert,

The Sydney 2009 World Masters Games were described by Mr Kai Holm, President of the International Masters Games Association, as being "...absolutely the best Games ever...."

This is a terrific result for an event that attracted record numbers (over 28,000), in challenging economic times.

Of course this would not have been possible without the involvement and commitment of such a dedicated team of professionals as the one that made up the Sydney 2009 World Masters Games Organising Committee team. Much of the credit for the calibre of personnel we had working on the Games is due to you Robert and your team at Sportspeople.

As our recruitment services provider, Sportspeople had a direct hand in the appointment of some 30 (or more than half), of our entire Organising Committee.

I place on record my absolute and total satisfaction with the services Sportspeople provided; the thorough and even-handed way in which recruitment assignments were handled; and perhaps most importantly, the quality of fields assembled for each vacancy which was in turn supported by research, honesty and not a hint of "we know what's best for you".

I have no hesitation in recommending the quality of services provided by Sportspeople to sport and event industry leaders in Australia and New Zealand seeking assistance to fill vacancies at all levels from senior management to administrative support. It is all about the people and Sportspeople secured the best available – what more could we ask for?

Congratulations and thank you Robert for the role Sportspeople played in the success of the Sydney 2009 World Masters Games.

Yours sincerely,
